CULTIVATING SPACE highlights contemporary efforts by women to create, share, and preserve greenspaces for all and showcases the importance of community spaces in this era of increasing urban and suburban density. Join us for presentations from four dynamic women, each a leader in greening communities.

Jennifer Jewell
Creator/Host, Cultivating Place, NPR Radio Show and Podcast; Garden Writer

Kaki Martin
ASLA, PLA, Principal, Klopfer Martin Design Group

Patricia Spence
President and CEO, The Urban Farming Institute of Boston

Kristin McCullin
Horticulturist, Allen C. Haskell Public Gardens

Sat, March 7, 2020
9:30am–12:30pm

Registration fee: $50
my.arboretum.harvard.edu | 617-384-5277
Event takes place at the Arnold Arboretum, Hunnewell Building, 125 Arborway, Jamaica Plain, MA